2 Survive Plunge In Lake Erie

By BYRON BEARD
HURON, Ohio (AP)—Intensified searching was under way over Lake Erie today for 14 missing sky divers who plunged through an overcast and strong winds into Lake Erie Sunday after missing their target by 10 miles.

Eighteen veteran sky divers made the ill-fated jump from a converted World War II Liberator bomber. Only two were known to have survived, both rescued, and two bodies—including that of a woman who celebrated her wedding day by sky diving—were recovered.

Two others on the plane missed the jump because they waited for a second pass from a higher altitude.

Searchers scouring the lake beneath flare lights Sunday night found only two helmets, two parachutes and a glove.

Helicopters, planes and an armada of Coast Guard, Air Force, Navy, Army and private boats and planes stepped up the search over a 40-square mile area of Lake Erie today.

Coast Guard Lt. Paul Potter said chances of the 14 surviving the night in the 72-degree water were "slim."

Exactly how the 18 Ohio parachute enthusiasts—most of whom had more than 100 jumps to their credit—missed their target by 10 miles was unknown.

"As far as I knew, I was right where I was supposed to be," the pilot, Robert Karns of Vermilion, told Ohio Highway Patrolman John Shimp.

Shimp quoted Karns as saying he was flying by a radar fix furnished him by the Federal Aviation Agency tower at Hopkins International Airport in Cleveland and a Loran Station at Amherst.

MISHAP INJURES FIVE

HINCKLEY, Ill. (AP)—A swinging chair carnival ride overturned Sunday during Hinckley's annual Homecoming Festival, injuring five persons, police said.

One of the injured was released after first aid for minor injuries. The others were reported in satisfactory condition in hospitals in Sandwich and DeKalb.

Those hospitalized were Bonnie Michael, 20, of Hinckley; her brother Eugene, 17; Steven Carter, 13, of Hinckley; and Penny Shuck, 9, of Waterman.

Boys Town Started With 5 Now Has 900

BOYS TOWN, Neb. (AP)—Fifty years ago, the Rev. Edward Flanagan, an Irish immigrant, decided to devote his life to helping homeless and wayward boys. He borrowed $90, rented a house in Omaha and started guiding his first "family"—two homeless newsboys and three lads turned over to him by a juvenile court.

Today there are 900 at Boys Town, orphans or boys from broken homes. The $90-a-month house in Omaha has grown into a $15-million dollar establishment about 10 miles west of Omaha.

Over the half century about 15,000 youngsters have passed through Boys Town. Since 1937 when it graduated its first high school class, most have gone out into the world with a high school diploma.

Father Flanagan lived to see his dream on its way to solid success. In 1946 he had launched a $5-million building program. It was well on its way when he succumbed to a heart attack

Beatles Manager Dies; May Hold Post Mortem

By RAYMOND PALMER

LONDON (AP)—A post-mortem probably will be held to determine what killed Brian Epstein, but one friend said the 32-year-old discoverer of the Beatles had been in poor health for months.

Brian Epstein

Epstein, whose promotion of the Beatles and other pop music stars made him a millionaire, was found dead in bed at his $100,000 home near Buckingham palace Sunday.

"No notes were found at the house," said a spokesman for Scotland Yard. "As far as we are concerned there are no suspicious circumstances."

After failing to make the grade as an acting student at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, Epstein went to work building a record department in his father's Liverpool furniture store. Intrigued by the number of requests he got for a German record made by a local pop group called the Beatles, he sought them out at the Liverpool Cavern Club in October, 1961, and became their manager.

He claimed that he lost money on them for the first year, but late in 1962 their records began spinning to the top of the hit parade, and the money began to pour in.

During the last five years the Beatles are reckoned to have earned between $56 million and $84 million, and Epstein's personal fortune was estimated at around $16.8 million.

Epstein had a great ability for discovering and promoting talent and had many other top pop stars under his management. To his staff he was known as an aloof man, but he was lonely and often depressed and admitted to friends he attempted suicide last year. Recently he had been depressed by the death of his father, to whom he was very close.

Arabs Open Summit Conference

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A summit conference of Arab leaders opens in Khartoum Tuesday to forge a unified policy toward Israel, but divisions among the Arabs on the civil war in Yemen and relations with the West may diminish the cordiality of the meeting.

Algerian President Houari Boumedienne is apparently reluctant to attend the conference in the Sudanese capital because he fears moderate leaders will prevail in policy making.

Foreign ministers of 13 Arab nations met in Khartoum Sunday and approved the agenda for the summit. Egyptian sources said the ministers regard the dispute over Yemen as foremost among inter-Arab feuds. Egypt backs the Republican regime in Yemen against Royalists rebels supported by Saudi Arabia.

The Arab world is also divided in its stance toward the West. Eight Arab nations broke relations with Britain and the United States, accusing them of aiding Israel in the June 5-10 war against the Arabs. But five other Arab nations kept diplomatic relations with the two Western powers.

Two of the five, Tunisia and Jordan, touched off a dispute at the foreign ministers meeting by pushing for a plan to improve relations with the West. Most foreign ministers argued that the question of continuing the embargo on oil shipments to the United States and Britain should be dealt with at the summit level.

Reports in Cairo of deeper Soviet involvement on the Egyptian-Republican side of the Yemeni civil war dimmed hopes for settlement of the 5-year-old conflict. Yemeni President Abdullah Al-Sallal conferred secretly in Yemen with a Soviet delegation Friday, then flew to Cairo for talks with President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Romney, Kerner At Governors Midwest Meet

By JIM NICHOLS

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (AP)—Gov. George Romney of Michigan said today he plans to put off a scheduled September trip to Europe "in order to look at the hearts of this nation's cities."

The undeclared Republican presidential candidate also said he planned to spend Christmas "with our men in uniform in Asia."

He added that he hoped to go to Europe "sometime in November" following a special session of the Michigan Legislature.

In an announcement the morning after his arrival at Missouri's Lake of Ozarks to attend the Midwest Governors Conference, Romney said:

"Before I look at other parts of the world again, I want to take a fresh look across the nation at the domestic problems in housing, jobs, education, law enforcement, health and human relations."

"This will be helpful in shaping programs for Michigan and in reappraising national, state and local priorities in the use of our resources."

Romney's aides said plans for his tour of American cities were incomplete at this time.

Romney, the man the latest Gallup polls said could beat President Johnson today, was among the last of the 13 governors to arrive.

Gov. Robert Docking, a Democrat in strongly Republican Kansas, said Johnson at this time could carry Kansas only if there was a "national Democratic landslide like the one against Goldwater."

Taking the opposite view were Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois and Gov. Hulett C. Smith of West Virginia, both Democrats.

"There's no question in my mind but what he is going to be re-elected next year," Kerner said.

Smith said Johnson "would win handsomely again today" in West Virginia.

MAN ARRESTED IN MURDER OF MOTHER OF EIGHT

CHICAGO (AP)—James Gideon, 27, was arrested by police Sunday on charges that he murdered Yvonne Bebo, 37, mother of eight children.

Her body was found on the basement stairway of the North Side apartment where she had lived. She had been beaten and stabbed.

Gideon was arrested after customers in the neighborhood liquor store said they noticed bloodstains on his shirt. Detective James Kelly said police found bloodstained clothing in Gideon's apartment.

Kelly said Gideon maintained he had been drinking and remembered nothing.

Bigger Negro Vote Important In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A sharp increase in the number of Negro voters could be a deciding factor in Tuesday's Democratic state primary.

The contenders for governor, Rep. John Bell Williams and State Treasurer William Winter, have pushed state's rights to the foreground of the campaign. But race has remained a muted issue.

There are no official figures, but state officials estimate that in the past four years the number of registered Negro voters has jumped from 30,000 to about 200,000. The increase took place in large measure after enactment of the Federal Voting Rights Act of 1965 and a series of voter registration drives.

Winter, a 44-year-old Grenada lawyer, opened his campaign with an attack on President Johnson's administration and hit at Williams for what he said was a lack of a program. He identified his political stance with that of Mississippi's two long-time conservative senators, James O. Eastland and John Stennis.

Williams, who drew national attention when he was stripped of his congressional seniority for supporting Barry Goldwater in 1964, has attempted to label Winter the liberal of the race.

He tempered a slashing personal campaign with discussion of issues in the closing days of the race.

While Negroes remained a shadow quantity in statewide contests, they were clearly moving ahead on the county level.

The plane stayed afloat for eight minutes, giving summer residents with small boats enough time to pluck five non-swimming passengers from the left wing before it sank.

Five others were picked up in the water as they swam toward shore and four others got to the beach without help.

All 14 Safe As Airliner Ditches In Ocean

Toned-Down Poisons From Sea May Aid Man

By FRANK CAREY

KINGSTON, R. I. (AP)—Toned-down poisons from animals and plants of the sea may ultimately yield powerful new medicines for mankind, a scientist said today.

Prof. Ara Der Marderosian of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science made the forecast at a symposium on "Drugs from the Sea" being held at the University of Rhode Island.

Indeed, he said, one such toned-down toxin—a chemical called tetrodotoxin and derived from the puffer fish of the Pacific—already is in use by Japanese physicians as a muscle relaxant and as a pain killer in hopeless cases of cancer.

Two other researchers said a potentially paralyzing chemical—called saxitoxin and obtained from contaminated shellfish—appears to offer a lead toward improved local anesthetics for use in dentistry and minor surgery.

They indicated, however, that the research—at the U.S. Public Health Service Laboratory in Narragansett, R.I.—has so far been limited to experimental animals.

The symposium, being attended by more than 200 researchers from university, government and industrial laboratories is co-sponsored by two scientific organizations and by the University of Rhode Island's College of Pharmacy.

Prof. Marderosian also listed several other new drugs, aside from the poison class, derived from creatures and plants of the sea.

These include: a chemical tapped from the "electric eel" and now used as a powerful antidote for pesticide poisoning, a versatile antibiotic wonder drug isolated from a fungus found in the Mediterranean, and a drug obtained from "Irish Moss" for use as a possible preventive for stomach ulcers.

Alleged Slayer Of Rockwell To Undergo Tests

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—A psychiatric hearing was ordered today for John C. Patler, 29, accused of murdering Commander George Lincoln Rockwell of the American Nazi party.

Patler's preliminary hearing was thereupon postponed until Aug. 31.

Today's proceedings were interrupted briefly by the cry of "you filthy assassin," shouted at Patler in the courtroom by a man identified as Eric Ray Wenberg, 21.

Court officials said Wenberg is an Australian, in the United States on a tourist visa and now living at the Nazi party headquarters near which Rockwell was shot to death last Friday.

Arlington County Judge L. Jackson Embrey sentenced Wenberg to 10 days in jail and a $50 fine, for contempt of court.

Judge Embrey said he would appoint a panel of three psychiatrists to examine Patler.

Embrey said he would also ask for an official copy of a psychiatric report on Patler based on an examination at least 10 years ago. Arlington's commonwealth attorney, William J. Hassan, told the court the examination had been made at the Morrisania Hospital and Mental Hygiene Clinic for the probation department in the Bronx, N.Y.

Wilson Hustles Major Shakeup Of Ministers

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson today hustled through a major shakeup of his ministers in a bid to beat mounting political and economic challenges facing his Labor government.

Wilson arranged to announce up to about two dozen hirings, firings and promotions tonight in the most extensive reorganization of the nation's leadership since Labor won power in October 1964.

It seemed probable, however, that Foreign Secretary George Brown and Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan will keep their jobs, at least for the time being.

The clear purpose of this will be to demonstrate that no drastic changes are contemplated in Britain's foreign policy and that no devaluation is intended.

The departure of either man at this time could, according to political authorities here, be misconstrued abroad.

The Wilson government currently has several king-size problems before it, the most important being the nation's economic and fiscal difficulties, reflected in an unemployment total of nearly 600,000, the highest in 17 years.

Where It Pays To Spend

Never in the course of human events have so many spent so much to educate so many.

Higher education — education beyond high school — now ranks as a major growth industry. It is a boom industry, with college enrollments rising faster than population, investment in college and university facilities and equipment expanding, the ranks of teachers, administrators, clerical and custodial personnel burgeoning — and tuition costs soaring.

No end to the boom is in sight.

Today, six million young Americans are enrolled in institutions of higher education, about two-thirds in public and one-third in private schools. This is nearly twice as many as 10 years ago and nearly three times as many as 20 years ago.

The number can only go on multiplying as the belief takes hold that a college education is not the privilege of a minority but the right of everyone capable of benefiting from it — indeed, that nearly universal higher education is a necessity if the nation is to remain a leader in a shrinking world run by technology.

Yet few people realize that Americans are collectively spending $20 billion a year educating these six million students. Juan T. Trippe, chairman of Pan American World Airways recently pointed out.

By contrast, he said, England, with a quarter of the U.S. population, has but a 30th as many collegians — 200,000 — and spends but a 28th as much on their education — $700 million.

Fully half this $20 billion comes from private sources — endowments; tuition, alumni contributions, corporate gifts and foundation grants.

Another $5 billion is allocated by state legislatures.

Federal financial support makes up the balance, reaching a new high of $5 billion last year — 25 times more than it was after World War II when federal participation in higher education began.

The outlook is for federal spending to more than triple in the coming decade as private and state sources reach their limit.

We talk a lot about "commitments" these days. We have commitments to our allies, commitments to South Vietnam, commitments to land on the moon, commitments to elevate the impoverished and discriminated-against in our own land.

But nowhere have Americans undertaken a commitment as willingly and enthusiastically as the one they have made to themselves and their children in the field of higher education.

Doctor Shortage Goes On

Soon, now, a carefully screened new class of young men and women will enter the nation's medical schools. And in due time — from five to 10 years hence, depending on the time served in internship, residency training and the like — the bulk of these men and women will enter the private practice of medicine.

When they do, there will still be a doctor shortage. The severity of that shortage will depend on how effectively hospitals and the medical profession cooperate in working toward optimum use of our varied health services.

No matter what is done, there will be too few doctors to provide top-notch care for the entire population. Nor is the problem of distribution likely to have been solved by then. But, short of training a lot more doctors than present medical schools can handle, steps could be taken to ameliorate the problem.

Valuable suggestions emerged from the White House conference on medical costs last June. Though cost was the focal point, some of the proposals also relate to the doctor shortage. Considerable attention was focused on how to increase the physician's productivity. This could be done in a number of ways — through group practice, for example, and by training other medical personnel to perform some tasks now mainly done by doctors which might be done by nurses and technicians. Better use of hospital facilities also was discussed, and this shows great promise. If a concerted effort is made to act on these and other suggestions, the situation may at least be somewhat improved by the time this year's class enters practice.

McNamara Defends Johnson's Vietnam Policy

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — What's the answer?

The Johnson administration seems to think it has the answer: More of the same. But the results so far haven't proved it's the right one. The war in Vietnam appears to be stalemated.

This is the administration answer, given through Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara: North Vietnam eventually can be convinced its attempt to grab South Vietnam is hopeless if this country continues fighting the war the way it's been doing.

But the way it's been going, costing lives and doing some damage to the North with U.S. bombing, apparently hasn't put a dent in the determination of the North Vietnamese to keep on fighting.

Earlier this month Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, leader of the House Republicans, raised objections to sending another 45,000 American troops to Vietnam unless the administration is willing to do far more, and far tougher, bombing of the North.

"Must we," he asked, "accept as inevitable that the only way to fight this war is within the territory of South Vietnam, matching the enemy body for body, bayonet for bayonet, grenade for grenade?"

Immediately McNamara said Ford "completely ignores the basic objective of the air campaign against North Vietnam."

He said the objective is not to invade or destroy North Vietnam — invasion might bring Red China into the war and so might all-out bombing — or to precipitate a bigger war but to curb the flow of men and supplies from North Vietnam into South Vietnam.

"This requires that the air attacks be directed primarily against the military lines of communication. They are."

"It is true that there are restraints on the bombing but they are restraints designed to save American lives, to avoid unnecessary devastation and civilian casualties in North Vietnam and to avoid action which carries with it the high risk of widening the war with all that implies."

But shortly after Ford spoke his piece, and as if in answer to his demands, President Johnson ordered the bombing stepped up. But when some bombs were dropped within 10 miles of Red China's frontier, this caused more protests.

Then Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, U.S. commander in the Pacific, had a few words to say: That many important and worthwhile targets with military significance have not yet been struck.

Then McNamara with a lengthy and highly detailed explanation went before a congressional committee to state the administration's case.

He said the purpose of the air campaign was to reduce — or increase the cost of — the continuing flow of men and supplies from North to South, boost South Vietnam's morale and let the North know there was a price tag on its continued aggression.

But, he said, it has never been considered possible to shut off supplies from the North completely. The reason: The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in South Vietnam, aside from food, need no more than about 100 tons of supplies a day, and only a few trucks are needed to transport that much.

McNamara, answering complaints like Ford's that the bombing is too limited, said about 85 per cent of all the targets in the North recommended by the Joint Chiefs of Staff have been hit.

He added: "Enemy operations in the South cannot, on the basis of any reports I have seen, be stopped by air bombardment" unless North Vietnam and its people are annihilated. And he said no one has proposed that kind of indiscriminate bombing. Sunday Ford said he didn't, either.

All of which means the war — since the U.S. forces in the South seem to be just holding their own and not crushing the enemy — isn't any closer to being won than it was in the beginning and may go on indefinitely.

Punishing Parents Could Be Answer

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In some cities, judges have gotten tough with teen-agers and their parents in an effort to halt the growth of youth drinking, dope addiction and prostitution.

A judge in Utah sends adults to jail if they're convicted of giving liquor to teen-agers.

Sentences run up to 90 days. Over one period of several months, 25 adults were charged in this judge's court with contributing to teen drinking. Twenty-one went to jail.

This same judge sentences young drinkers to work. Some do as much as 100 hours of work for the community without pay.

Teen-agers and adults who mix drinking and driving lose their licenses. So, it's reported does everyone else in a car when liquor is involved.

This same court reportedly has set up a system under which citizens report to the police or the court if they believe there has been a liquor violation.

Reports indicate there has been a sharp drop in teen drinking and youth crime in the area in which this judge serves.

In one Connecticut town, where they've had some serious problems, law officials are now tightening up. They're now passing the word to parents that in serving liquor to youngsters under 21 they risk heavy fines and jail.

In most states, neither courts nor the police have found a solution for teen drinking, dope peddling, prostitution, glue sniffing or narcotics addiction.

The laws are there — usually. In one typical community, adults, and any teen over 18, can be fined $1,000 and given one year in jail for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. This includes giving liquor to a teen. It also includes giving a teen a false ID card that indicates he or she is old enough to be served liquor in a public place.

se same laws make it illegal for teens to have liquor in their possession, or for teens themselves to create false identity cards or pass them.

Similar laws, varying in detail, are on the books in many communities. The rules vary from place to place as to age.

There are, of course, strong laws concerning the use or sale of narcotics, though there's often little that can be done about glue sniffing.

The problem lies in enforcement. Many judges have been reluctant to sentence teenagers. Police have handled youthful offenders with kid gloves.

One problem is that many of the youngsters come from middle and upper class homes. Their parents are good citizens. Most are known and respected in their communities. Some have considerable influence.

Stiff justice would cause an outcry in the community.

Furthermore, proof is difficult. Parents co-operate with their youngsters in hiding or suppressing evidence.

It may be that one partial answer is, as some judges believe, to stiffen the sentences and to sentence parents as well as the teens.

Fulfillment Sought

By ANN LANDERS:

Dear Ann Landers: You'll never know what you did for me when you printed that letter from "Young At Heart" — the 70-year-old woman who longed for fulfillment night after night while her husband (who had gone dead sexually 10 years before) was snoring in the next bed. She asked if something was wrong with her and wondered if she was the only woman in the world "up in years" who had the problem. You said, "No. You are not alone."

I, too, wondered if I was alone. I am 68, look 55 and feel 35. My husband is 68, looks 75 and acts 100. On his 50th birthday he made an announcement — too many of his friends were dropping dead of heart attacks and sex was killing them. "I am through with all that nonsense," he proclaimed.

I almost went into shock. We had been married 27 years, raised four fine children, and I thought the physical side of our marriage was perfect.

After eight months of living like brother and sister, I celebrated my 50th birthday by taking a lover. (He is 10 years my junior.)

I am not writing to ask if I am doing right or wrong. I just wanted "Young At Heart" to know how I dealt with the problem. — BACK FROM THE DEAD

Dear Back: Please keep reading and learn how another "Sister In Misery" dealt with the problem.

Dear Ann Landers: The 70-year-old woman who fell for the carpenter — or was it the paperhanger — caught my eye. I know how she must have felt, after having raised a nice family and believing her marriage to be a good one in every respect, to be told that part of her life was over. It happened to me, too, not exactly that way but close enough.

About that time an attractive man (also married) showed me a little attention. I was flattered. "No harm in it," I thought. "Just something to brighten my life." Before I knew it, I was sneaking around, seeing him twice a week, lying to my husband and taking ridiculous chances. The man swore he loved me and needed me as much as I needed him. He said what we were doing was beautiful and right. Then I began to hear his name pop up over bridge tables and in the locker room of the club. He was linked with this woman and that woman. When I was told that his car could be found every Thursday afternoon in Mrs. X's garage (Thursday was her maid's day off), I couldn't believe it. So I checked, and I saw not only his car but the man himself going into the house by the side door.

I thought I would die on the spot, but I didn't. I just promised myself I would go home and work as hard to rejuvenate my marriage as I had worked to keep the love affair exciting. I discovered that my husband was very pleased when I took the initiative. It brought out a side of him I'd never seen before. He later told me he had just given up because he was sure I had lost interest in him.

When I run into my former Romeo at social affairs I feel cheap and ashamed. But I thank my lucky stars I didn't wreck my life over him. He isn't fit to shine my husband's shoes, much less fill them. — HOME WHERE I BELONG

Dear Home: The medical literature I have read makes it plain that many people past 70 are still sexually active. "Young At Heart's" letter, however, produced such an avalanche of mail that I now believe the geriatrics set is even livelier than the literature indicates. And I say hurrah for them!

THE COMPLETE LOOK, co-ordinated in color and fabric, is highly favored for going back to college this fall. For juniors there is the smart three-piece costume (left). The coat has the new big zipper closing, stand-up collar, slant pockets and is pile lined. The skirt is in matching fabric with a turtle-neck sweater and a metal belt. Co-ordinated costume (right), coat over shift, is a hallmark of the junior back-to-college wardrobe. The coat of large check fabric favors an A-line, low-waisted silhouette with single button closing and self fabric belt. The shift gently shaped contrasts in fabric.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Follow Safety Rules
In Sandlot Football

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Coaches and school physicians have done much to make football a safer game for your boy in high school or college, but what about those who play sandlot football? The players are usually younger and there is no coach, doctor or referee present and no protective equipment is used. Sandlot football has the advantage over organized school football in that there is less pressure on your boy to overexert and win the day for dear old Slwash.

On the other hand it is estimated that sandlot football accounts for about 22 per cent of all football deaths. Fathers of football-minded youngsters can do a lot to prevent injuries and deaths in several ways. One of the best ways is by acting as coach whenever possible. Teach your boy how to relax and roll as he falls to minimize injury. Teach him, when waiting for the ball, to assume a flexed position, leaning forward slightly with his knees bent but not stiff. He should also learn to keep his head up at all times.

These young players rarely, if ever, engage in the recommended pregame warm-up in the absence of a coach. For this reason it is doubly important to make sure that they are in prime physical condition. Boys who have had rheumatic heart disease greatly endanger their health by playing in any kind of contact sport, as many have found to their sorrow. Since his parents cannot be with him every minute, they must impress on such a boy the need for him to recognize his limitations.

All sandlot football should be restricted to touch football because the absence of protective gear makes tackling extremely hazardous. Flag football is even safer. In this game, each player wears a flag in his belt. For a down the "tackler" must remove it from the player carrying the ball.

On the sandlot the players should wear sneakers — never cleated shoes. No sharp buckles or pins should be worn. If your boy wears glasses, they should have safety lenses or he should use a protective mask. Preferably helmets should not be worn but if one player wears a helmet, they should all wear one. Dimestore helmets should not be worn because they are costume toys and not protective devices.

After all precautions have been taken some injuries are still bound to occur. Most of them will be minor but you must teach your boy not to try to be a hero. If he incurs even a minor injury he should drop out of the game and not resume play until his injury can be evaluated.

Guides for Kindergarten Moms

By BETTY CANARY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

This will be the first school session for many mothers. Their little ones are off to kindergarten. Through the years every mother gathers know-how and information and I think it is only right that they share this with others. For example, it took me awhile to interpret what the kindergarten teacher meant when she said certain things to me. But, comparing notes with other mothers, along with intensive questioning of my children helped me to crack the code. Having a couple of teachers as cousins didn't hurt my research either.

My cousin Jean teaches her students to "not run, but walk and then stand respectfully a step or two in front of teacher" when they come to tell her something. Actually this is more for her protection than their good manners. You see, twice in one week a child ran to her, said, "Miss . . ." and vomited right in her lap.

When a teacher sends a polite little note stating, "We expect self-reliance in dressing," Well, what she means is "Thirty children equals 60 feet equals 240 boot buckles and how would YOU like to fasten them?" During the first few weeks if you ask her how Jerome behaved, she will say something like, "Today he was a perfect gentleman." This means he was in the washroom and therefore could not join in when the other boys rolled the piano into the girls' playhouse.

Kindergarten teachers tend to be very protective. Chances are, if she says, "Jerome does not seem to completely understand how to share," she is telling you in a nice way that Susan did not GIVE him that turtle.

"He makes friends easily but at times seems overly aggressive," means Jerome and his new pal Tony smeared finger-paints on Susan's dress. "He can work alone," translates "Jerome painted her shoe by himself."

During the first part of school, if you are standing with the teacher while the kiddies march into the room and she says, "Look at the darlings with their sweet flower faces!" it means she is sensitive as well as dedicated. If she says this toward the end of school, get the principal because obviously this girl is cracking up.

Plastic Table Tops
Are Not Indestructible

By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — I have a new laminated plastic kitchen set. It is my first new one in years and it has so many scratches. My main reason for buying it was that I was tired of doing tablecloths and this set would not require them. I work and do not have much time to spare so would certainly appreciate an answer about these scratches. — SARAH

DEAR SARAH — and others — The manufacturer of the laminated plastic product used on Sarah's table advised me that, contrary to the opinion of some, this material is not indestructible. For scratches, they suggest washing, then waxing with a liquid wax. If this does not turn the trick, they make a commercial product for this purpose which could probably be obtained from your dealer selling such products. — POLLY
DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Veronica that I, too, have tried to take pictures from television programs with my camera. I have always failed. Our camera shop advised me that it just cannot be done by a nonprofessional. He went into detail about using a tripod, exceptionally fast film and catching it at the peak of action. He said that it could be done by professionals but otherwise NO. — M. E.

DEAR POLLY — Have you ever wished you had a candleholder when you were camping in a tent? You may have the candle but it is of little use without a holder of some kind. Try this: Take your pocket knife, open one blade and press the base of the candle into it, then open another blade out to a right angle and run it into your tent pole.

Cement a row of magnets to the metal stud pan you use to clean the garage, basement or workshop. When sweeping up you will not have to sort out the nails, screws, etc., from the shavings and sweepings. They will even cling to the dust pan while you are dumping the trash. — D.D.S.

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell the lady who wanted to dye her summer straw bag that I have had no luck with dyeing but that giving it two coats of good enamel is very satisfactory. — MRS. E. K.

DEAR GIRLS — Remember this painting is for straw bags, where it does work, but many of the woven bags now being sold are plastic and I am not too sure that the paint would stick to them. — POLLY

Why Are Young Negroes Angry, Violent Group?

By AUSTIN SCOTT
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — H. Rap Brown, angry, volatile, and only 23, drew himself up to his full imposing six-foot-plus and showered his Cambridge, Md., audience with bitter words.

"If this town don't come around, this town should be burnt down," he shouted. Less than 24 hours later, four square blocks of the small city had been reduced to scorched rubble, and National Guardsmen patrolled the streets.

In Detroit, a middle-aged Negro housewife looked from her front porch past 12 fire-blackened chimneys where homes for her neighbors had stood. She wondered aloud how the Negro teen-agers gathering on what was left of 12th Street—youngsters the same age as her two daughters—could call the destruction "beautiful."

A Negro policeman in Brooklyn, N.Y., glanced around a main intersection at the plywood-fronted stores that testified to nighttime violence and recalled what had impressed him:

"I saw a lot of people who were angry that night," he said. "All under 14."

Why should these youngsters, born into an era of concern over civil rights unmatched in the past century, be angry?

"I wish I knew," the policeman said. "We try every way we know to reach them. We even bought them 25 mats so they could practice karate. But we don't reach them. They use us when they need us."

Scenes like this, together with countless other less violent, pointed up in recent weeks what some observers say is a new mood among young Negroes in the big city slums.

As violence spread last month to cities of all sizes across the nation in a pattern no one could predict, the big question was whether the angry young Negroes who dominated television screens and headlines really touched responsive chords in large numbers of the friends and neighbors.

The question can be answered definitively only as time passes, for the mood on the streets of Harlem and Hough, in the alleys of Detroit and Los Angeles, is constantly changing. But there are signs that unless enormous changes in slum conditions come quickly, the answer will be yes.

The bitter language of Rap Brown would have been dismissed five years ago, even in Harlem, as the inflammatory street-corner preaching of an extremist.

But his name drew applause last month at a Black Power conference attended for the most part by moderates and militants who were both well educated and well-off financially.

"I hope you don't expect me to rap Rap," a pert Harlem girl of 18 told a reporter. "He's kinda crazy-but it's a feel-good crazy."

In middle-class Negro homes, parents whose children consider them conservative sometimes echo the sentiments of the militants.

"America just must find means to implement all the glorious slogans it has voiced but not achieved in the centuries since its founding," one schoolteacher wrote to her adult son last week.

"Minorities of all hues and stations are tired waiting. Maybe your grandchildren will be able to say the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag without the feeling of revulsion I get . . . as I say 'with liberty and justice for all'."

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Economics may be a science of sorts, but some of the views now being heard in consideration of a tax increase prove that economic testimony is not.

It may be curiously influenced by opinions, administrative problems and politics, among other factors.

Tax hearings in Washington give evidence of this, or they seem to, for the National Association of Manufacturers, supporting a tax increase, finds itself agreeing with some union people and opposing the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

This curious alignment could be the result of factors other than economics. But in speaking with representatives of those holding these views one is assured that economics was their prime consideration.

If this is so, how can the chamber, which opposes an increase now, view the situation so differently than the NAM, which chamber membership includes 463 of the top 500 manufacturers in America? Werner Gullander, NAM president, indicated that his support of a surtax was arrived at in a coldly scientific manner.

On July 11, Gullander said, the taxation committee of the NAM viewed the impending budget deficit as an inflation threat and decided then, even before the White House proposal, to support a tax increase, distasteful as it would be.

"When the President's bill for a surtax was proposed," said Gullander, "I had a simple problem." Gullander went to Washington and testified for a one-year surtax of less than 10 per cent.

The real solution, he said in an interview, would be to cut "uncontrolled" spending. But, he added, it was already too late to cut for fiscal 1968. Next year, he indicated, less spending might be the answer. Meanwhile, higher taxes. Then why did the chamber, which has a considerable cross-membership with the NAM, reach a different conclusion? And why should the NAM reach a decision in early July when the chamber, in late August, still maintains it is too early to decide.

The chamber argues that a tax increase should be deferred "until it is substantially more certain than now that there will be a major upturn in the economy." The NAM seems not to have had this uncertainty.

As Gullander views it, the chamber may be seeking too much precision from the economic indicators. Perhaps the statistics do not show conclusively that an upturn has begun. But can you expect the figures to shout so loudly?

Gullander also believes the NAM may have felt more of an urgency to reduce the big budget deficit, whereas the chamber perhaps put its emphasis instead on the threat of inflation. Both are dangers, both groups agree.

The chamber, however, represents an implication from critics that it departed from its theme of fiscal responsibility—that it ignored the dangers of a big deficit with no remedial tax increase.

The chamber recognized this situation, a spokesman said. But it felt also that higher taxes at this time might thwart business to the extent that fewer taxes would be collected and that, therefore, the deficit would remain large.

returned to find Patler seated at the defense table behind a cordon of police.

Two stood at his back, while six lined up across the bar. There were no further interruptions, and after the 12-minute hearing Patler was briskly escorted back to jail, where he is being held under $50,000 bond.

Wenber's outburst was brief. A trim, blond, crew-cut youth, he leaped from a bench in the courtroom shouting the "assassin" charge at Patler and also calling him "you filthy swine!"

A half-dozen policemen swarmed over Wenber, handcuffed him and carried him out of the courtroom by the hands and feet.

Patler was arrested shortly afterward a few blocks away. Police recovered Saturday what they identify as the murder weapon—a 7.62 mm semi-automatic Mauser pistol. It was found in a stream three blocks from the shooting scene. Its ownership has not been determined, police said.

Rockwell was shot once through the chest, authorities reported. Two shots were fired through the windshield of his car and it was initially believed the other bullet struck him in the head.

Objecting to the party's plan to bury the 49-year-old Rockwell at Culpepper, Robert Miller, chief of staff for the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Virginia, said: "It is wrong for a man living against the ideals we have fought for should be laid to rest beside comrades who have given their lives for the country's freedom."

Rockwell's family wanted to bury him at Boothbay Harbor, Maine, near the home of his father, retired vaudeville and radio comedian George "Doc" Rockwell.

However, the slain man's brother, Robert K. Rockwell of Barrington, R.I., said Sunday "the family no longer wishes to contest the claim" of the Nazis to make the funeral arrangements.

Robert Rockwell said he was "quite sure" no members of the family would attend the services.

As a Navy veteran of World War II and the Korean War, Rockwell, honorably discharged, appeared qualified for burial in a national cemetery, with full military honors. These would include an honor guard, use of an American flag to drape the casket and the playing of Taps.

Two Marine jet pilots later reported they destroyed seven of the 12 Communist firing positions around Dong Ha.

The most severe of Sunday's bombardments was at Can Tho, the biggest city south of Saigon. Officials said mortar shells killed 37 Vietnamese and wounded 203, and 51 of the casualties resulted from shells hitting a big hospital close to the U.S. military advisory compound. Four Americans were wounded.

Attacks on seven Vietnamese and American positions near Hoi An, 15 miles south of Da Nang, killed 15 civilians and wounded 34, a government spokesman said. He said 39 civilians were kidnapped.

Sky Divers

The divers were unprepared for the landing in water. None had floating equipment, the two survivors said. Each carried about 50 pounds of equipment.

Patricia C. Lowmsbury of Akron—who had celebrated her wedding on June 28, 1964 by sky diving with her husband—was found dead in the water.

"She loved sky diving," said her husband, Alvin, as he waited on the dock as the Coast Guard returned her body ashore Sunday night.

Lowmsbury, an iron worker, had made the wedding sky dive with his bride. He quit jumping earlier this year after suffering his fourth broken leg.

The other known drowning victim was Dorsie Kitchen Jr., 33, also of Akron.

One of the missing, Michael Thiem of Springfield, had told friends before the jump that he didn't like the idea of going. It was too close to Lake Erie and he couldn't swim, he told them.

Winds were estimated at 58 miles an hour at 20,000 feet up. Robert Coy of Springfield, one of the survivors, said, "I was shocked and flabbergasted to see that I was over the lake. We assumed we were over the field."

"As soon as I broke out of the clouds, I knew something was wrong," Coy added. "All I saw was water." Coy had made 262 previous jumps.

"The waves were over my head and water was swishing into my mouth," he added. Coy said he stayed afloat by making an air pocket within his crash helmet.

Twenty-three persons had been scheduled for the flight, but only 20 made it. The patrol said the jump was attended by parachutists from various parts of Ohio, and not sponsored by any one group.

Meanwhile, the repatriation of Arab refugees to the Israeli-occupied west bank of the Jordan River continued to lag. Only 1,388 refugees straggled across the bridges Sunday. With only 11,392 refugees repatriated by Sunday evening, officials said it was unlikely more than 20,000 in all could be returned home before the Israeli deadline of Aug. 31.

United Nations officials aiding the refugees estimate the total number east of the river at 170,000, while Jordan claims the total exceeds 200,000.

Would Give Aged Funds For Own Medic Insurance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the American Medical Association suggested today that persons over 65 eligible for medicare receive a direct government subsidy to finance their purchase of private health insurance.

Dr. Milford O. Rouse, testifying on the administration's Social Security amendments, told the Senate Finance Committee such a plan would be more practical than the current medicare program involving the government, insurance carriers and physicians.

"Physicians find that government has involved itself in medicine through such regulation as rules on reasonable charges; statistical data requirements; and definitions of physicians' services," Rouse said.

"The elderly patient is sometimes dissatisfied because he finds he is getting less than he expected; or experiences delays in being reimbursed and often doesn't really understand the government - physician - carrier combination that is trying to take care of him," he added.

LIQUIDATION WAVE HITS GRAIN DEALS

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat and rye futures set seasonal lows in a wave of liquidation that hit the Chicago Board of Trade in early dealings today.

The liquidation was mainly by holders of futures who expected prices would rise. With prospects for a record wheat crop nearing fulfillment, these longs turned to selling.

The selloff also was influenced by the prospect of the first notice day Thursday, when holders of futures must decide whether to accept delivery of a commodity.

Wheat, rye and soybeans were actively sold by local professionals and commission houses with some commercial interests buying on the down scale.

In the corn pit, prices were irregular on the opening and fluctuated over a narrow range of ¼ to ½ cent under the previous close.

Soybean oil trade was light and prices slightly higher, while soybean meal trended lower. Commercial selling turned choice steer prices lower in moderate trade.

After about an hour, wheat was ¼ to ½ cents a bushel lower, September 1.45½; corn was unchanged to ¼ lower, September 1.20½; oats were ½ to ¼ lower, September 69, rye was ¾ to 1½ lower, September 1.16½ and soybeans were ¾ to 1½ lower, September 2.75½.

Flood Disrupts Subway Service In New York

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A heavy downpour Sunday, accompanied by fog, thunder and lightning caused widespread flooding, disrupted train and subway service, stalled auto traffic, and knocked out electric power in some New York metropolitan area communities.

The storm, blinding in intensity at times, caused at least two persons to die when a plane crashed into a 500-foot Bronx radio tower and cut off AM transmission by radio stations WNBC and WCBS. The stations obtained emergency service for regular broadcast today.

A total of 2.12 inches of rain fell on the city and outlying areas during the day, contributing to the wettest summer since 1938. The city water supply now stands at 95 per cent. Two years ago, during the Northeast drought, it was 43 per cent of capacity.

Cool weather came to the nation's midsection today as temperatures dipped to unseasonably low levels. Rain dampened the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

Giants' McCormick Records 18th Win

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer Mike McCormick, San Francisco's comeback king, is playing the hitters one at a time. Atlanta's pitching staff is ganging up on them.

McCormick became the National League's first 18-game winner Sunday, scattering five hits as San Francisco blanked Atlanta 2-0 in the opener of a doubleheader.

The Braves then bounced back to take the nightcap 4-1 behind Ed Rakow, Ramon Hernandez and Phil Niekro, who teamed up for a masterful two-hitter.

The shutout victory was the second in a row for McCormick, 18-6, who blanked league-leading St. Louis 6-0 last Wednesday and has pitched 24 consecutive scoreless innings.

"I never worry about how tough the teams are I face," said the veteran left-hander, re-acquired by the Giants in a trade with the Washington Senators last winter. "I just worry about one batter at a time."

Rakow, unbeaten in three decisions since the Braves rescued him from the minors last month, was clipped for two hits and a run in the first inning of the nightcap. He then pitched five hitless innings, walked two Giants with one out in the seventh and was replaced by Hernandez.

Hernandez threw an inning-ending double play pitch and gave way to knuckleballer Niekro, who completed the two-hitter by retiring all six batters he faced.

Cards Roll On
The Cardinals whipped Los Angeles 6-2; Cincinnati outslugged Houston 11-8; Philadelphia blanked Pittsburgh 2-0 in a rain-shortened 4½ inning game and the Chicago Cubs topped the New York Mets 3-1 in seven innings before rain halted play and washed out their doubleheader nightcap.

Run-scoring singles by Ollie Brown and Hal Lanier in the sixth inning provided the Giants' margin against loser Clay Carroll.

Clete Boyer's 22nd homer in the fourth inning of the nightcap ended a scoreless string of 25 innings for the Braves and Hank Aaron knocked in the deciding run with a fifth inning single.

Javier Paces Cards
Julian Javier tripled one run home and scored another as the Cardinals exploded for five runs in the third inning and subdued the Dodgers. Winning pitcher Nelson Briles triggered the big inning with a single, but needed relief help from Joe Hoerner in the ninth.

Pete Rose, who homered, and Tommy Harper each drove in three runs as the Reds built an 11-4 lead at Houston, then weathered the Astros' four-run ninth inning rally. Vada Pinson lashed a triple and two singles in the Reds' 14-hit assault.

Larry Jackson stopped Pittsburgh on four hits and Tony Taylor drilled a two-run triple for the Phillies, who have won seven in a row, before the rains came.

Randy Hundley, whose second inning homer lifted the Cubs into a 1-1 tie, singled to touch off a two-run burst in the seventh and Rick Nye pitched a five-hitter as the Mets went down to their eighth straight setback.

Quarterback Change May Spark Raiders

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — In the first seven years of American Football League existence, the Oakland Raiders had such quarterbacks as Hunter Enis, Nick Papac and Chon Gallegos. None of them ever led the Raiders to the Western Division title.

The Raiders also had Babe Parilli, Cotton Davidson and Tom Flores, but none of them fired Oakland to the top either. Now the Raiders have Daryle Lamonia, and they're eager to learn whether he can bring a change in their fortunes.

"Lamonia has worlds of promise, but it is very difficult for any quarterback to step into a new offense and become an immediate success," Coach John Rauch commented. "The key to Oakland's season, however, seems to be just how fast Lamonia can adjust to the Raiders' way of things."

The 26-year-old quarterback came to Oakland in one of the biggest trades of the off-season. The Raiders gave up Flores, receiver Art Powell and one draft choice for Lamonia, receiver Glenn Bass and two draft choices.

Played Behind Kemp
In his four years with the Bills, the former Notre Dame star played behind Jack Kemp, but at various times he came off the bench and got Buffalo moving.

He may have to move the Raiders' pretty far if they are to catch defending champion Kansas City, but such an occurrence is not inconceivable.

To go with their potentially good passing attack, the Raiders have one of the top running duos in the league, all-star Clem Daniels and Hewitt Dixon.

Daniels ran for 801 yards last year and gained 652 more on 40 pass receptions. Dixon, making a switch from tight end to fullback, got going in the latter part of the season and averaged 4.1 yards per carry.

Bass probably will be the fourth man in the backfield at flanker, but Fred Biletnikoff also has a chance to be there.

Two-Way Battles
Two-way battles are going on for the other two receiving spots — Bill Miller and Lionel Taylor at split end and Tom Mitchell and Billy Cannon at tight end.

Mitchell and Cannon shared tight end time last season with Mitchell catching 23 passes to 14 for Cannon. But Mitchell averaged only 13 yards per catch while Cannon had an astronomical gain of 31 yards per reception.

The rest of the offensive line includes tackles Bob Svihus and Harry Schun, guards Wayne Hawkins and Jim Harvey and center Jim Otto.

Defensively, the Raiders are set on the line with Ike Lassiter and Ben Davidson at ends and Dan Birdwell and Tom Keatinge the tackles.

Dan Conners and Gus Otto will be at two of the linebacking spots, but the third is between Bill Laskey and Bob Williamson.

The secondary probably is Oakland's strongest defensive point, particularly with cornermen Kent McCloughan and Dave Grayson and safety Roger Bird. Dainard Paulson, an acquisition from the New York Jets, most likely will be the other safety.

Coach Rauch believes his team has a good chance for its first title, but he knows all too well that the Chiefs are still in the league. "They're the champs, and it'll take some real good football to beat them," he said.

Westchester Is Rained Out For Third Time

RYE, N.Y. (AP) — It's reaching the point where it's almost funny. Like getting hit in the face with a wet towel.

Three days of rain have turned the Westchester Classic, a $250,000 affair, from the world's richest golf tournament into a sudden disappointment.

For three days tournament officials have tried to get in the second round. And for three days heavy, soaking rains have turned the lush links of the ultra-plush Westchester Country Club into a quagmire.

Players and officials are bitterly disappointed. And the comments have reached the caustic stage.

At an interview on the edge of the indoor pool, Lee Trevino looked up when someone splashed into the water.

"Someone going after his ball," said the young, El Paso, Tex., pro, one of the chief victims of Sunday's rain-out. He was one of 83 who had finished their rounds when rains and lightning wiped it all out.

Trevino was in with a five-under-par 67 and a 135 for two rounds over the 6,573 yard, par 72 layout. He was tied for second with Gary Pittman, a one-time assistant pro at the club, who had a brilliant 65.

They were two strokes back of Mason Rudolph, the pudgy veteran from Clarksville, Tenn., who had a 67 for 133. All, of course, are wiped out.

Now it all reverts to Thursday's first round results, with Rudolph, Gary Player and Jim Colbert tied for the lead at 66, followed by Jack Nicklaus, John Schlee and Bob Charles at 67. The schedule now has 18-hole rounds set for today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Dave Davis of Phoenix, Ariz., knocked down more pins in a 40-game tournament than any man in history as he won the Professional Bowlers Association $27,500 Green Bay Open Sunday.

The 6-2, 155 pounder totaled 9-316, breaking the world record of 9-283 held by Billy Hardwick of San Mateo, Calif., set in the 1965 Los Angeles Open.

Duffy Daugherty's Michigan State football teams were unbeaten the past two seasons.

Matt Snell has gained 1,003 yards catching passes and 2,355 yards on rushes during his three seasons with the New York Jets.

Chisox' Waiting Tactic Pays Off

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer Eddie Stanky's hit sign wasn't doing him much good so the Chicago White Sox skipper adapted to the conditions and switched to a waiting game.

Stanky's patience paid off in a run without a hit that gave the White Sox a 1-0 11-inning victory and a split of a Sunday doubleheader with Boston.

The Red Sox took the opener 4-3 with Carl Yastrzemski slamming his 33rd and 34th homers of the season. The split, combined with Minnesota's 6-3 victory over Cleveland, moved the Twins into first place, one percentage point in front of Boston. Chicago is third, one game back and Detroit, which lost 2-1 to Kansas City, is fourth, 1½ behind.

The White Sox, whose team batting average is hovering around .230—ninth best in the American League—had managed just four hits against Jose Santiago and Darrell Brandon in the nightcap. In the 11th inning, Stanky decided to stop swinging and start waiting.

Brandon, who had taken over in the 10th when Santiago collided with catcher Mike Ryan and injured his knee, obliged nicely. The tall reliever walked Duane Josephson opening the 11th. Ron Hansen sacrificed and Brandon then purposely walked pinch hitter Smokey Burgess, who was swinging for winner Gary Peters.

Joel Horlen ran for Burgess and Brandon wild pitched the runners to second and third. He bore down and got Ken Boyer on a bouncer, retiring Josephson along the third base line. Horlen reached third and Boyer first on the play.

Forces In Run
Don Buford walked, loading the bases and then pinch hitter Rocky Colavito waited out Brandon's fourth pass of the inning, forcing Horlen across.

Elsewhere in the American League, New York belted Washington 8-2 and California's doubleheader at Baltimore was postponed by rain.

Jim Merritt hurled a seven-hitter for the Twins and Rod Carew and Rich Rollins smashed home runs. Joe Azcue, who was robbed of a homer in the second when Ted Uhlaender made a spectacular catch in center field, tagged a

"The worst I've ever seen a pro team play," said Eugene Gklein, part owner of the club. "I just don't know. It's unbelievable." The San Diego exhibition record is now 1-3.

Tensi, in the meantime, heaved a 39-yard pass to Neal Sweeney, setting up Denver's first touchdown the first time the Broncos got the football.

Then, in the fourth quarter, after Oakland fought back to a 17-14 edge, Tensi's 42-yard pass to Ernie Crabtree put Denver in position for the go-ahead touchdown.

In the only other exhibition game Sunday, New York beat Minnesota 21-3 in an NFL game.

On Saturday, Washington of the NFL beat the AFL's Boston 13-7. Pittsburgh took St. Louis 24-12 in the NFL. New York downed Houston 13-3 in the AFL. Baltimore knocked off Detroit 14-5 and New Orleans took San Francisco 24-10, both in the NFL.

Green Bay and Dallas of the NFL meet in a televised contest tonight.

Rich Six Days In Racing Set For This Week

Dr. Fager, still clinging to a chance to upset Damascus for the 3-year-old title; Vitriolic, one-half of trainer Eddie Neely's double-barreled threat for the 2-year-old crown; the top 2-year-old fillies of the Midwest; and the best of the 3-year-old fillies in the East combine their talents to make this week one of the most interesting and richest six days of the year in thoroughbred racing.

Dr. Fager, kept from meeting the powerful Damascus in Saratoga's Travers because of a virus, goes in the 1¼ miles of the $250,000 - added New Hampshire Sweepstakes Classic at Rockingham Park Saturday.

In Reality, who picked up first money in the $100,000-plus Jersey Derby last May 30 when Dr. Fager was disqualified, is at Rockingham waiting for a chance to get even.

The much-traveled Reason To Hail also is headed for the race after finishing fourth in a grass course race at Saratoga Springs last Saturday.

Neloy showed the other half of his double threat for the juvenile championship last Saturday when What A Pleasure got up in the final strides to take the $113,975 Hopeful as Saratoga closed its most successful meeting.

Vitriolic is slated to take on some of the Midwest's best Wednesday in the $25,000-added Futurity Trial Stakes — the final warmup for the Sept. 9 renewal of the world's richest race for thoroughbreds, the $360,000 Arlington-Washington Futurity at Arlington.

Arlington Park features the $150,000 Lassie for aspiring juvenile fillies Saturday while Aqueduct offers the $50,000-added Gazelle for 3-year-old members of the distaff division.

Diplomat Way, who won the 1966 running of the Arlington-Washington Futurity for his richest success, again found an Arlington oval to his liking last Saturday. Racing on the grass he took the $55,800 Laurano Armour Handicap for 3-year olds and paid $8.40 in earnings, $31,800.

When Buckpasser came from behind to win the Suburban Handicap at Aqueduct on July 4 he ran his earnings to $1,419,144. Ahead of him are Kelso and Round Table, both retired.

INSURANCE INSIGHTS

By Charlie Hayes

What is the job of the insurance inspector? Insurance inspectors visit large properties periodically. They make a detailed survey of the premises. They help the policyholder maintain established good practices of fire and accident prevention.

The insurance inspector is an important aid to the policyholder. He can help in cutting losses and insurance costs. Insurance cost is reduced as the likelihood of loss is reduced.

Sometimes insurance companies are invited to consult with a policyholder's architect. They may suggest ways to guard against fire and accidents.

Insurance companies have a continuous campaign for safety. They are interested in accident and fire prevention. Many insurance companies provide safety information to schools

Following the business meeting, president of Old Orchard Country Club Richard Frazier appeared before the group and gave a short talk about the new plans for rebuilding the club house. He introduced Bob Litvan who is now associated with an architect firm in Springfield and son of Dr. and Mrs. L. G. Litvan of Pittsfield. Bob explained the tentative drawing which has been on display in the club room. John Blake, member of the Building and Planning Committee also talked to the ladies about financing the new building. A question and answer session closed the meeting.

Mashahiro Miyahara, a 104-pound righthander with a good fast ball and excellent control, limited the Chicago kids to three hits. He walked only one and struck out five.

Duffy Daugherty's Michigan State football teams were unbeaten the past two seasons.

Matt Snell has gained 1,003 yards catching passes and 2,355 yards on rushes during his three seasons with the New York Jets.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

By STELLA
MONDAY, AUGUST 28 — Born today, you are highly resistant to the ideas of others, being one who would rather fail as a result of your own originality than succeed on the merits of someone else's ingenuity. Such independence is admirable — only if it doesn't become false pride, the kind of pride that keeps you from getting ahead in business or profession simply because you refuse to listen to other people. Combine your ideas with another's for better — than — ever results.

Your chief concern insofar as your work is concerned has never been financial; always you have been more interested in the personal satisfaction you can gain from your career, and that is why you will not be swayed in your choice of a life's work by material benefits offered, but rather by the contribution you can make to your own and others' happiness.

Your personal relationships may well be stormy in their early stages, but once others get to know your basic qualities of humor, intelligence and wisdom, your contacts should settle down into sessions of mutual admiration. But don't expect more than you're willing to give.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Tuesday, August 29
VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23) — Keep to your own doings today and let others keep to theirs. A good day for the Virgo who wants to play the "loner."
LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23) — Not the day for showing weakness before co-workers. Advancement may be in order for the Libra who contains himself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) — Time for a bit of introspection. It may not be the "other guy" who is at fault at all; seek some other causes for tension within yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22) — Take care how you spend money today — especially another's funds. Don't think you can make up for things later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20) — If you lose this day insofar as progress on the present project is concerned, you may fall too far behind to recover.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19) — Words that sound angry may have been meant in the spirit of deepest friendship. Pay attention to meaning, not tone.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar. 21) — A little sugar on the pill of truth can carry you a long way today. Don't hurt another needlessly.

ARIES (Mar. 22 - Apr. 20) — Gain the inner peace that comes of doing what you know to be right — even though it may not be the thing you want to do.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21) — Consider your neighbor's wants before your own. A good day for making an impression on higher — ups on the job.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21) — Act in haste, repent at leisure. This is not a good time for making any fast moves. Go slowly, even when you've considered things well.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23) — Calm down before you answer another's questions. They may not be as ill — meant as they seem.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23) — An excellent day for getting ahead on every level. Where

Claims 100 Lives

Caring For Devil's Slide Takes Something Special

EDITOR'S NOTE—Chief Ed Greer and his 23 men of the Pacifica Fire Department are kind of special. They have to take care of the Devil's Slide, a 750-foot cliff on the California coast. The precipice has claimed at least 100 lives, from accident, suicide or murder. The firemen have saved dozens of others.

By HAROLD V. STREETER
Associated Press Writer
PACIFICA, Calif. You must be able to dangle unafraid at rope's end over a 750-foot ocean cliff. Far below, the breakers froth over jagged rocks. You need all your courage to look down.

Once you have been lowered, you must know how to avoid being sucked by the undertow into submerged caves at the cliff's base. You must know how to use alpine equipment on almost perpendicular rock walls. Otherwise, you can't make it on the Pacifica Fire Department. For its 23 firemen and Chief Ed Greer—all swimmers, all expert in first aid—are custodians of Devil's Slide.

Nearly every week some of them are out there pulling a body from the sea or plucking an often-injured, a l w a y s, terrified person from the slopes. They've recovered 28 bodies in a decade and rescued more than 60 injured persons since 1963.

Devil's Slide, a 2½-mile segment of rugged coastline 12 miles south of San Francisco, combines raw beauty with violent death.

Many a speeding motorist on State Highway One has roared off the sweeping curve near its crest and flipped into a fatal somersault of crunching steel. Nine died in one car in 1944.

Some people get marooned on Devil's Slide in places where mechanical rescue equipment can't reach them. That is when the firemen turn alpinists, using rock pick and hammered pin.

Since 1953, when the Pacifica Fire Department was put under search-rescue-recovery contract by San Mateo County, not a fireman has been killed or even seriously injured in the perilous work.

Nobody seems to know just what to do about the Slide. The idea of a steel mesh fence was checked and dropped. Too costly. Around $125,000.

In 1949, after 10 fishermen had been washed to death in two years from rocks at the cliff's base, law enforcement officials erected a sign with 10 crosses. Deaths piled up. The sign ran out of space.

Signs banning climbers had a reverse effect. People came by who had no idea that climbing was possible. They read the signs, then stopped to try it.

Since 1961, it has been illegal for a car to stop on Devil's Slide except in an emergency, but cars still plunge off the Slide. Two motorists were killed there and 19 injured last year. How many have died there? "At least 60 since 1938," says Sheriff Earl Whitmore.

No one really knows. The caves, some 100 feet long, hold

OUT OF COFFEE BUSINESS

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The Ministry of Industry and Commerce will allot 113 million new cruzeiros to disband unprofitable coffee plantations and substitute other crops. The money will also be applied towards improving coffee crops in suitable areas.

TOPLESS RUDOLF Nureyev, famed Russian-born ballet star, appears refreshed after a dip in the Mediterranean, and considerably happier than he was following his arrest at a hippie party in San Francisco recently. The lithe dancer is shown here during a vacation at La Turbie, near Monaco.

CAN'T AFFORD AN ORIGINAL painting or piece of sculpture? Rent one. The current trend is for galleries and museums to provide a selection of art work on a rental basis. Often the rental fee goes toward the purchase of a painting. Also important is the suggestion of how to display art in the home. Those who want to create a different look in the home can take pointers from decorator James Daggett who designed the special corner with potted plants to balance the large oils. Inexpensive prints, well-framed photos of family and friends or plaques fit the new mode to cover room walls with eye-catching objects.

Your family's silent partner

Lying there on the doorstep, it can't speak. Or Move. Or Hear. But open it in your hands and it becomes a living, powerful partner in daily living. In the decisions you make, the opinions you form.

It takes you to the highest chambers of government. It takes you to the bloodiest streets of warring countries. It takes you to the heart of history in the making. In short, it tells you what in the world is happening and why.

But people depend on it for needs beyond the need to know. It's where families turn when something's to be bought or sold. It's where hints on health, cooking, religion, amusements, dressmaking, etiquette, marriage are found.

It's where charities first turn for help, and a place where a letter to the editor is published. It's where campaigns are fought and lost dogs are found. It's where criminals are exposed and newlyweds applauded. Where birth and death meet on the same page.

It's your newspaper, silent partner of the family, yet one that says so much, does so much for so many people — every day without fail.

Everyone Wins In New Games

By GORDON G. MACNAB
Associated Press Writer
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The trouble with games, Donald McKinlay decided, was that for one person to win, another had to lose.

He said it should not have to happen that way.

So he asked Reed College to give him a scholarship to create games of cooperation rather than competition.

It did and he is now at work. "I was riding in a train with lots of time to think," he said of his plan's origin, "and I began thinking about games. It seemed to me the total dominance of competitive play was a moral inadequacy."

McKinlay said games he wanted to create, played on boards would involve the players in situations comparable to those of real life.

Then, he said, they would become "worthwhile works of fiction in which the players are characters."

He said a small start in that direction has been made in board games in which players buy stock or buy cars or sink battleships.

McKinlay, 22, a tall, husky, bearded Reed College graduate from Encinita, Calif., said he wanted to go beyond that.

One of his games is already at the playing stage. It is called "The Rising Death" and in it men living in four cities must build paths and reach a central point before a plague called the Rising Death reaches its peak.

If all are at the goal, all will die; so each helps the other. The game is played on a large maplike board and cards drawn in turn provide information on paths to take and messages of danger. Men are lost, or advance in given numbers, or are transferred from one city to another when two cities build paths to a crossroads.

At the crossroads the players may exchange information and it is this communication, as well as proper movement of men along the paths, that brings victory.

"Copies may eventually be sent to the United Nations," McKinlay quipped.

There are no plans now for making his games available commercially.

Other games he has charted in general outline include one in which a player starts with some controls over each other player and must decide as the game goes along whether to seek absolute control over all, or to destroy the controls, including those he has over others.

"I hope it may develop into a game of temptation or moral decision-making," he said.

In another called "The System," the players are lost and must find themselves and each other.

"At present," he said, "there doesn't seem to be a method whereby the players are defeated." He is working on that.

When he asked Reed to give him a scholarship to finance his project McKinlay said, "Games could become a significant art form. There are no logical limitations to what can be done with games."

The early Polish people called themselves Polians, or dwellers in the fields.

Oswald: "When I was learning bridge there were definite rules for the opening lead. You were given wide latitude in choice of the suit but every one agreed on the right card to lead, once you picked the suit."

Jim: "The rules had changed very little when I was learning the game. Today every expert has his own theory of which card to choose. They tend to lead top of two; with three to the king, queen or jack they lead third best just as they did in the good old days. They also lead low from three to the ace against no - trump, but no one is likely to lead from an ace against a suit bid."

Oswald: "Three small is the great problem. Most lead third best, a few still lead the top as they did 30 years ago and some play a convention called MUD — middle, up and down. In other words, lead the middle one and play up or down later as the spirit moves you."

Jim: "You aren't any sort of standpatter. We both lead low from three small except when we have raised our partner's suit and he can figure out that our seven or eight isn't the top of a doubleton."

Oswald: "All this brings us around to today's hand and something ultramodern. Fifteen years ago we always led fourth best from four or more small cards. Today, we frequently lead the top so that partner won't play us for an honor."

Jim: "When today's hand was played in the Mid - South Regionals in Edgewater Park, Miss., every South player reached four hearts. Where East did not overcall, a diamond was usually opened and South would make 12 tricks. With a spade overcall and spade raise the old - fashioned three of spades lead spelt trouble for the defense. East would finesse the ten and South would take all the tricks. When the seven of spades was opened, East would go right up with the ace and return a club to hold South to his contract."

THE FREQUENCY OF CRIME

The staggering frequency of crime is shown in clock form above, from figures released recently in the annual reports of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The difference between three of the clocks, robbery, burglary and larceny, is that robbery is a face-to-face confrontation in which the victim's life is threatened; burglary is theft on the victim's premises without his immediate knowledge; and larceny is the overt confiscation of another's property.

You Owe Them Plenty

Your Ancesters Irish, Scottish Or English?

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — If you are American with an English, Irish, Scottish or Welsh name and have ancestors who came to the United States in 1800-75, you owe them a lot.

The debt is illustrated in two rooms of graphic history just opened at Britain's Maritime Museum at Greenwich. It shows in stark reality how 7 1/2 million immigrants crossed the Atlantic westward during the 19th century.

"It was," says Cmdr. W. E. May, deputy director of the museum, "The greatest migration man has ever made."

Many of the voyagers never made it to bear American and Canadian offspring. Most of the ships were unbelievably tiny, some just 50 feet long.

Says a chunk of notes from the diary of a man who greeted one of those ships, the Airthy Castle:

"Two hundred fifty-four passengers had been packed in the hold or steerage. Some had gone ashore when I got there. What I saw was about 200 human beings, male and female, young and old and middle-aged, talking, singing, laughing, crying, eating, drinking, shaving, washing, some naked in bed and others dressing, handsome young women (some) and ugly old men, religious, irreligious."

Cmdr. May comments: "In the early part of the great migration and especially during the Irish famine, conditions on shipboard were frequently appalling even by the standards of the 19th century."

"The records show that the deaths during the voyage were highest among the Irish, for they dragged themselves aboard suffering from malnutrition and some were dying as they sailed."

Two photographs show the immigration ships Peter and Sarah. Both were built in 1809 and the picture was taken in 1859. Neither ship exceeded 50 feet in length.

Some of the ships were packed with humans to the point that it is difficult to understand how the crews were able to sail them.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Samuel Goldwyn celebrated his 85th birthday Sunday in a quiet manner befitting his position as Hollywood's elder statesman.

The longtime independent producer had expected to putter about his croquet court with a few close friends. On the night before, several of the top names of the film world gathered at his Laurel Lane mansion in Beverly Hills to salute his 85 years.

That was all the observance that Goldwyn wanted. Unlike recent years, he did not summon the press to his Formosa Avenue studio to deliver pronouncements on the state of the movie business.

"Look—I have no news to offer," he said on the telephone from his office. "After 54 years of dealing with The Associated Press as a film producer, I have too much respect for it to give an interview when I have nothing to announce. Now when I have some news to announce—then I will call you."

He added that he had managed to elude reporters during his recent trip to Europe, except for a London interviewer who nabbed him for 15 minutes. This conservatism with the press is something new for Goldwyn, who long enjoyed making statements to reporters and wasn't loath to add a malaprop Goldwynism to spice the story.

During the past year or two, the film pioneer has been retiring more and more from the Hollywood scene. He rarely attends other people's parties or awards banquets, although he and his wife Frances still give small, elegant dinners at their home. This is part of the slow-down process during his 80s.

He no longer takes his long walks, limiting his exercise to croquet, in which he is a formidable adversary. He still goes to the studio two or three times a week, but his stays there are shorter in duration.

But if his physical powers have lessened, he seems as alert and canny as ever.

"He still keeps a close eye on everything that goes on at the studio," which he rents to other producers, an intimate reported. "And he studies the ratings on his televised features with the same care he used with theater receipts when they were first shown."

The Goldwyn product has been released to TV during the past couple of years, and the producer has been able to rattle off ratings for such films as "Best Years of Our Lives," "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," "Guys and Dolls," "Hans Christian Anderson" and "Wuthering Heights."

Goldwyn watches a great deal of television and often sees the latest films in his home. Privately he deplores the trend toward sexier and more violent films, but he declines to make any public pronouncements.

The last film he produced was "Porgy and Bess" in 1959. Failure of the public to embrace the folk opera was a bitter disappointment to him. Recently there have been rumors that Goldwyn might return to production, but his friends doubt it.

SOME CHECK
WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — G.L. Bolen, a courthouse employee, noticed a small piece of paper on the courthouse lawn and walked over to pick it up. It was a check for $163,440.75, made out to a Wichita bank and written by Fred Carp, a retired army colonel.

The check had been written to buy some government bonds. Carp noticed it was missing and was preparing to write a duplicate check when he received word that the original had been found. He said he was not worried, as he realized no one could cash such a big check.

Nice for a change: baked beans (from a can) heated with a little red wine.

500 VOLUMES CIRCULATED IN READING PROGRAM

ARENZVILLE — The initial summer library program held at the Arenzville school one day a week from June 16 to August 9 resulted in circulation of an excess of 500 books. Books from the Illinois State Library supplemented those from the school libraries, and were checked out by youngsters and adults alike.

Mrs. Leland Schnake, School District 27 librarian, headed the summer reading program, assisted by volunteer workers Mrs. Roland Carls, Mrs. Robert Clark, Mrs. Fran Hobrock, Miss Mary Louise Lutkehus, Miss Jennie Ater, Miss Sara Clark, Miss Annis Clark, Miss Mary Alice Middendorf, and Miss Marilyn Schroeder.

TOO MANY ACCIDENTS
MELBOURNE (AP) — In the past 11 years, 27,512 people died in Australian road accidents—a figure equal to the population of Australia's city of Darwin.

Some other suggestions for controlling the road toll are: Three-year probation plates for newly licensed drivers, which they could lose if convicted of a driving offense; Compulsory driver education in secondary schools; More police patrols, particularly at night; Overhaul of traffic offenses, including a reappraisal of penalties; Elimination of level crossings on railway lines; Establishment of a central body to allocate money for road and traffic systems; Stricter controls in the sale of secondhand cars, particularly older models.

FRANKNESS
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The editor of the Kentucky Irish American here may have offered a suggestion of interest to many other editors—and readers. Two of the columns of a recent issue were blank except for a headline reading: "Copy for this column lost in the mail."

BUT SOMEBODY TOLD DENVER (AP) — After a sixth-grade class had visited his courtroom, Judge Sherman Finesilver received a thank-you letter from the pupils. The note also said, "We promise not to tell anyone about your messy desk."

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By BILL BUCHANAN

The self interest instinct is the most commonly recognized trait in the human race. There are occasional exceptions of course, but for the most part, we put "me" . . . "I" . . . "mine" — ahead of "you" . . . "yours".

This philosophy starts early in life. For instance, in our childhood prayers, we are taught to say, "Now I lay ME down to sleep, I pray the Lord — MY — etc." And if often goes on with, "Bless MY mommy and MY daddy" and so on. The thinking of "Me first" . . . "You next" . . . even has some comedy as many parents see when they settle childish squabbles over such routines as bathroom occupancy. . . . In contrast, read this poem — (author unknown).

"We cannot pray the Lord's Prayer, and even once say I . . . We cannot pray the Lord's Prayer and even once say My . . . Nor can we say the Lord's Prayer and not pray for another; for when we ask for daily bread, we must include our brother . . . Certainly, others are included, in each and every plea; from the beginning to the end of it, it does not once say Me!"

It is an interesting contrast! . . .

FREE FODDER KITCHEN

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — While many relief agencies have opened free kitchens for 10 million famine-stricken people in eastern India's Bihar State, a local organization has started a "free kitchen" for cattle of the area.

Cow-worshippers have been contributing liberally, so that the kitchen can import fodder from outside areas and save cattle from dying.

When you add that dash or pinch, make it less than 1-16 teaspoon.

HANDKNIT COATS are tops for the fall season. You can knit this short top in a choice of three yarns. All are quick to knit and machine washable for easy care.
